SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

OF

Holy Trinity Church,
Picton.

Consecrated by Bishop Hobhouse, Trinity Sunday, 1863.

P R E F A C E.

THE following address was delivered at the table of the House of Representatives, on the 30th of August, 1869. It is necessary to state that no part of it was written till ten days after its delivery. Part of what was said has probably been omitted, and something which might not have been said may possibly be included; but certainly nothing that was not present to the mind of the speaker before the address was spoken.

It was understood that it would appear in Hansard with the debates of the House. But, on the 3rd of August, Mr. Creighton stated that "he found in the Hansard report the following words," "Mr. Busby appeared at the Bar of the House and made a statement in support of his claims." For statement see the appendix to this volume.

He trusted that the House would take action on the subject and say whether Mr. Busby's statement was to appear as an appendix to the Reports of the debates of the House, as "it was not right that statements, known to be untrue, and which had not been contravened, should be published under the authority of the House." He also stated that he "knew that the report of the speech was nearly all in type in the Government Printing office." On the following day "an interim report was brought up from the Reporting debates committee, representing resolutions," to the effect that Mr. Busby's statement at the Bar of the House be not printed as an Appendix to Hansard.

No doubt the Members of the House are privileged to slander their neighbours; but while the press is free, the privilege of exposing these slanders cannot be denied to the injured party—and it is intended in an appendix to do full justice to the misrepresentations and evasions of the truth, as well as to the blatant falsehoods, by which the House was induced to allow a second session to pass without making provision to redeem the Governor's dishonored bills, and for the satisfaction of a judgment debt, as well as to vindicate its own Legislation, which had been set at naught by a provincial functionary.

It is, however, necessary to the full understanding of the following address that it should be prefaced by some explanatory remarks.

FINANCIAL FALLACIES

EXPLANATION.

The following letter was offered to "The N. Z. Financial Times" in reply to a criticism which appeared in that journal. The Editor in accepting my contribution has explained, that it may be necessary to limit the subject matter to his available space, and I recognise that this is a very reasonable condition, having regard for my "long winded" contribution.

I have never acquired the useful advantage of expressing a full meaning in a few words, and to avoid the disadvantage of the suggested "censorship" I have decided to be self-reliant and I am therefore using this "leaflet" for my purpose, which is to strive for a truthful exposure of the cause of the economic depression, which I attribute to the over capitalised condition of the world, and the extortionate interest charges connected therewith.

Although the banks have abandoned the "Gold Standard" they still adhere to the motto "Silence, is Golden" and perhaps it is for this reason that any publicity in the press referring to the banking institutions is subject to control and censorship—hence the expedient use of this leaflet serving a very limited purpose.

In sporting metaphor it may be said that the International race of 1914 was run over the wrong course and it is now evident that it will have to be regarded as a "false start". The exhausted runners will have to start again over the "course proper" but the new race will be subject to some "penalties and allowances" which are under consideration at the International conference. It is recognised also that the "Stake" will require adjustment as it has been made up of spurious value much of which will need cancellation.

Next to religion there is no more complicated problem today than the economic puzzle, and like religion the solution is involved in faith in various doctrines—some crude—some scientific.

In a clumsy way I "pin my faith" to the belief that the world will right itself when monetary values can be adjusted to the value of real assets, and debts and credits reconciled with the truth that "you cannot take the bricks off a Heilander."

It is a manifest truth that if debts are overwhelming, credits that have resulted from war wastage and war profits must be regarded as extortionate and unjust. The war destroyed assets and increased capital claims and this disequilibrium must be adjusted to mutual advantage before the safety of civilisation can be secure. I suggest that monetary claims are too oppressive on industrial efforts and unless relief is given in large measure, capital will find like the dog in the fable that "in grasping at the shadow, it has lost the substance."

A New Order for New Zealand

- A survey of the economic problems which confront the Dominion and the presentation of a programme for the restoration of real democracy, paving the way for the establishment of economic and social justice, securing equality of opportunity for all and abolishing undeserved poverty in the midst of super-abundant plenty.

by ARTHUR WITHY

"Individuals and classes can obtain their own just rights only by struggling for the rights of others—and herein may we see the deep philosophy of Him who bade men love their neighbours as themselves. In that spirit, and in no other is the power to solve social problems and carry civilisation onward."
